

THE FCPA APPROACHES MIDDLE AGE: IS THE ANTI-CORRUPTION LAW SLOWING DOWN OR AS SPIRITED AS EVER?

Live Webcast

Tuesday, November 14, 2017

1:00 p.m. — 2:00 p.m. EST

For 40 years, the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act has kept business interaction with overseas government officials on a short leash. But four decades of federal enforcement dominated by voluntary disclosures and widely disparate settlements has deprived FCPA targets of clear standards and guidance. Our speakers will derive lessons and trends from recent DOJ and SEC actions, forecast what the law's next decade may bring, and identify possible vulnerabilities ripe for judicial review.
